Mr Giddings appears to have been the first to state the rational and practical ground on which members of Congress and the people sustaining them could effectually resist the institution of slavery. This statement was made in a speech delivered in the House of Representatives, February 13, 1844. His first position on the question was taken without waiting to learn how it would affect his standing with his constituents, and was nobly sustained by them in the advanced ground he had chosen as their representative."

The following is the decision rendered by Judge Grier on the twenty-second (22d) day of Septem ber, 1869, in the United States Circuit Court at Philadelphia The case was argued three day-by Charles M. Keller of New York, B F Lucas Brass Foundry and Brass Furnishing Room, and S A Purviance of Pittsburgh, for defend ants, and George Harding of Philadelphia, and George H Christy, of Pittsburgh, for plaintiff

As I write with difficulty I can only state the conclusions to which my mind has come after a curreful examination of this case.

The complianant has exhibited a patent dated 52th April, 1865. This is prima face evidence of a good title, and puts on the respondents the burthen of proof that the patent is void or worthliese. I need not repeat my remarks in the case of Goodyear is Day [2 Wall, C C Rep 299], but now adopt them as affording a rule of decision which supplies there it there are not decision which

The Nathan murder is the absorbing pic of conversation in New York. No dditional tacts have been elicited beyond what we gave in our published account yesterday No clue to the perpetrator of this dark and bloody transaction has yet been traced The police are active and mysterious in their investigations. The press discuss old theories, and invent new ones A most painful suspicion has im plicated a son of the murdered man with this horrible tragedy Superintendent Jourdan sconts the idea of young Nathan s guilt The friends pronounce the charge indignant But facts carry their own ev lence and pregnant meaning on their face The first theory started was that the mo tive was plunder and the criminal a com mon robber that it was a professiona band that wrought the deed on the other hand it is said that the ship corpenters tool is not a burglars imple ment that a professional burglar would have administered chloroform to the sleep LINEN GOODS ing victim as a first measure or precru tion that the character of the wounds in flicted show that it was revenge and nalice that nerved the arm of the as-assir the abstraction of the studs and or the watch were but a cover and a blind of the da.dlier crime intended. The Northern Pacific Railroad. Steele, in the August number of Old and New, recalls public attention to the fact that, for all purposes of navigation, Puget Sound is nearer the great Asiatic marts than is San Francisco Even if the vessels going out from the Golden Gate took their course direct for Hong Kong or Shanghai they would, by farther south, scarcely have less sailing than by bending round more to the north But in point of fact, the prevailing winds and ocean currents of the Pacific are such that vessels from Asia find their most elig ible route bringing them within fifty miles of the entrance to Puget Sound, thus mak ing by the Northern Pacific, when completed, a saving of nearly a thousand miles of ocean navigation. This added to the diminution of distance over land gives us a route from our Eastern cities to the coast of Asia shorter than any other by about fitteen hundred miles When this road shall be in successful ope ration the time required to reach the Pacific coa t by means of it from New York city will not exceed about four days al lowing an average rate of movement of thirty miles an hour Thence to Shanghai

The Ocean Yacht Race.

From the Toronto Globe

The peaceful contest between the British yacht Cambria and the American yacht Dauntless has been decided, the victory sits on the peak of the Island champion, and the flag which was to announce the name of the winner floats from the City Hall of New York, which the letters "Cambria" on its folds The race has caused, for the last week or ten days, the greatest excitement in the United greatest excitement in the United e. Heavy bets were made, the Amer-s, for the most part backing the the greatest excitement in the Cunter State. Heavy bets were anade, the Americans, for the most part backing the Dunaless with that patriotic recklessness which they always exhibit when the question of nationality enters into a competition in which a citizen of the United States may be engaged. It is said by the friends of the Dunaless that their favorite would have won had it not been for delry occasioned in endeavor mg to save two poor tellows whose lost live-sque to the contest a melancholy feature which even the glare of triumph cannot totally obliterate. To have risked the chuice of success for the humane purpose of saving the lives of two of her men, is infinitely more creditable to the owner of the Dunaless than it he nad won the vietory. And the gallant American deserves all praise for the boldness and skill which he raamfested, and so also the owner or the Cumbria. Both vessels a representatives of the nations to which they belong—the onl, two nations in the world that could send two yachts to con test, over a stormy and perilous course o r four thousand miles, the palm of sea over four thousand miles, the paint of sammaning and nautucal renown. But the wonder of such a bold and dashing centure is leveled when we remembe that to each nation the ocean has been, in times past, the scene of their greatest triumphy, and that Briton and American alike boast
